FOOTBALL NOTES.

[BY HALF-BACK.]

The visitors at the Portman Road ground on Saturday last were treated to a bit of a fight as has yet been witnessed there this season. The Town Club, for reason, went through their list of engagements without a single draw in any match, but now we have already to record two during the past two matches, both of which were the final results of good hard fought games, although, undoubtedly, the best team were not on the stripes had the greater part of the play in the field. On Saturday bad luck, combined with extraordinary goal-keeping, prevented the home team from coming in win, which, considering the fine form which the team displayed, they ought to have done.

Once the lads got into their stride there appeared to be only one team in it, but ill-luck early commenced to interfere with them. A free-kick was soon awarded them near to the touch line, and by the ball were actually placed in the net, but the referee simultaneously blew his whistle because the Woodville men were not observing the proper distance from the ball, and so the point was not allowed. In this action, of course, Mr. Jones was right, but one or two of his decisions on Saturday were certainly surprising ones. On one occasion the Woodville custodian saved a hot shot by falling over the crossbar, and another surprise the referee awarded a goal kick instead of a corner, as should have been the case, such a mistake being rather unusual with him. However, it is very pleasant to me than to complain of a referee, whose duties are very arduous, and often thankless, yet their action must, of course, be open to criticism as well as a player's.

The Town half-back line were in grand form, F. Turner appearing in something like his old brilliancy, whilst Haward and Woods were invariably too much for the Woodville forwards. Walford still continues to improve, his shooting powers being particularly smart, but he has not yet acquired the full knack of it. Catchpole was early disabled, and although he pluckily remained on the field, he was practically of no use, and so retire, a piece of ill-fortune which also befell one of the visitors' forwards. Ratcliff and Stanley Turner performed brilliantly, while Osborne, although not at his best feints, stuck gamely to his work all through. Cotton, the reserve forward, did very well after Catchpole's retirement, but previously to that time Mr. Cornell was handicapped by a previous slight injury, which, however, he pluckily performed in a splendid manner, and undoubtedly saved his side from defeat.

Lowestoft Town duly very well to beat Beccles College by three goals to none on Saturday. The residers are making big endeavours to take their rank amongst the senior teams of the county, and although the sport they have to offer visitors in the town, the quality of the play is very slow to improve. The Kirkley team has certainly shown the better form of the two up to the present, but I believe that the Town men are now beginning to pull themselves together. The Collegians are no mean opponents for the Lowestoftians to beat.

The Norwich Churchmen did remarkably well to win the Claptonians within a single goal in the English Cup game, at Norwich, but considering the poor form shown by the visitors the initials ought to have won, for a little less than five minutes' play appears to have done the trick.

As I anticipated, Long Melford fell an easy prey to Haverhill Town, who did even better than their fellow-townsmen, the Rovers, winning the match by seven goals to nil. The Melfordians have started their career in the Suffolk League in a very inauspicious manner, having had four points taken away from them in their first two engagements. The glory of the city, which, however, is fully dimmed by the evidently departed, and other young West Suffolk clubs are completely overrunning them. This, however, appears to be the inevitable fate of the majority of amateur clubs.

The Ipswich Middle School Past and Present are scarcely keeping up their reputation, and on Saturday could only beat St. Mary Stoke, although playing upon their own ground, by four goals to one. It will certainly require a better display than that from Christmas to carry the team through to the final stage as last season. Should they succeed, they like this that beat Colchester Town by 12 goals to one.

Leiston and Saxmundham, at Leiston, played a pointless draw. Orwell Works came a cropper before the men of Brantham by no less than eight goals to one. The result of the match was wholly unexpected, and requires some explanation, which I will endeavour to furnish. The Ardleymen have got a very strong team, and the Orwell Works, although they have a very inauspicious manner, having had four points taken away of them in their first two engagements. The glory of this club, which, however, is fully dimmed by the evidently departed, and other young West Suffolk clubs are completely overrunning them. This, however, appears to be the inevitable fate of the majority of amateur clubs.

Ipswich lovers of the sport will have another opportunity of seeing what will probably prove an extremely interesting match this afternoon, even as the 1st Coldstream Guards pay the Town a visit. A good military band will be in attendance before I expect with confidence to see a bumping gate if the weather is at all promising. Beside, the 1st Coldstreams have not yet been beaten this season, and, as they have the services of Catchpole, whose knee is not quite right yet, Cowell's first eleven will be engaged at Stowmarket this afternoon.

Everton failed to win their return engagement with Small Heath on Saturday, the score at the call of time being 2 goals each. Notts County, on the other hand, succeeded in taking a couple of points out of Wolverhampton Wanderers at Sunderland, but had to work hard for their victory, the score being 3 to 2. Most of the League were:—Notts Forest beat Derby County, 2—1; Blackburn Rovers beat Bolton Wanderers, 3—0; Sheffield Wednesday beat Aston Villa, 7—0; West Bromwich Albion beat Sheffield United, 1—0; and Burnley defeated Accrington, 3—2. Sheffield West Bromwich Albion and Bolton Wanderers played a draw, 1—1. The table revised to date is as under:—

	Played	Won	Lost	Drew	For	Agst	Pts
Everton	11	7	2	2	30	15	16
Sheffield United	12	7	3	2	24	15	16

Stoke	9	1	6	2	11	25	4

In the second division matches on Saturday, Woolwich Arsenal beat Notts County, thus taking three points this season from the Nottingham Cup holders. There is hope for London professionalism yet. Other matches were Newton Heath beat Manchester City 3—2, and Middlesbrough beat Lincoln City, 4—0. Monday Notts County scored a win at the expense of Rotherham Town, 1—0, which latter team was again beaten the following day by Derby County. The second division table, revised to date, is here given:—

MARKETS.

IPSWICH CORN, Tuesday.—Wheat, with a supply below average, was firm at 1s. per qr. advance. Reds (dry) 29s. to 30s.; (damp) 27s. to 28s. Whites, 29s. to 31s., rovets, 18s. to 19s. 6d. per 504lbs. Flour very firm, with holders demanding 1s. per sack more money. Barley, a good demand, and prices 1s. per qr. dearer. Grinding sorts, the lower descriptions of which were difficult to sell; prices ranged from 19s. to 28s.; a minority of fine parcels sold freely, at 30s. to 36s. per qr. Oats and grinding barley about 3d. per qr. dearer on the week. English beans and peas unaltered. Australian peas unchanged at 25s. to 26s. per 504 lbs. Maize, 23s. to 23s. per qr. Maize firm, at 1s. per qr. more money on the week, in retail, with a good inquiry. Oilcakes unchanged. Middling, slow, but bran meets with more enquiry, and the turn dearer.

IPSWICH CATTLE, Tuesday.—Animals penned, exclusive of sale yards: 644 fat and store beasts, 771 sheep, 1,240 pigs, and 70 calves and milch cows. Spring Sons' sale yard there was a better supply of home-fed beasts, but the general quality there was a good demand, but those not quite so good were dull sale. A nice consignment of neat stuff from Messrs. Richardson, Johnson, & Co., Bungay, and others, and big, good grass-fed beasts from Mr. E. Cooper made up to £24 10s. There was rather a shorter supply of pigs, which were of ordinary quality, and prices ruled high. Good shearling sheep made up to 65s., Mr. Allen's 63s., Mr. Dawson's 64s. Hoggets from Mr. Wm. Dawson made 50s., and from Mr. Beck's Pork trade a little better; there was a good supply and a few more customers. The 60 advertised shoats from Mr. Jno. Johnson, Bramford, made 30s. per head, making up to 41s. 6d. Numbers penned: 75 fat beasts, 138 sheep, 1,240 pigs, and 70 calves and milch cows. Mr. Fred Ford, Debenham, which made 38s. downwards; 70 half-bred sheep from Mr. Jno. Smith, Debenham, made 22s.; 75 from Mr. Damant, Helmingham, averaged 26s.

HARLESTON CORN, Wednesday.—Wheat: Slow sales for milling, and prices 1s. per qr. lower. Beans: Sells well, full prices of last week, no sale for low qualities. Oats and maize quite as dear. Beans and peas firm, but not much wanted. Barley 1s. per qr. dearer.

SAXMUNDHAM CORN, Wednesday.—Dull trade at last week's rates. No advance on wheats. Barleys variable, one exceptional sample being bought by a local maltster at 30s. per qr. Oats and beans 1s. per qr. dearer.

BUNGAY CORN, Thursday.—Small supply of wheat on offer. Dry samples command better prices. Malting barley 1s. per qr. dearer. Fine feeding barley quiet. If the present mild open weather continues prices will be checked.

BECCLES CORN, Thursday.—The market to-day was well attended, but grumbling was the rule as to prices. The wheat supply was small, red fetching 19s. to 22s., white 22s. to 23s. per qr. Barley very slow and the supply limited; quality being bad.

STOWMARKET CORN, Thursday.—Wheat was firm at 1s. per qr. dearer on the week; reds 19s. to 22s.; whites 20s. to 23s. per 504lbs. Flour 1s. per sack dearer. Barley, fine malting qualities 1s. per qr. dearer. Barley, fine malting qualities 1s. per qr. dearer. Barley, fine malting qualities 1s. per qr.

CHARITY COMMISSION.
In the matter of the Charity called the Seckford Hospital and Woodbridge Endowed Schools, in the parish of Woodbridge, in the County of Suffolk, regulated by a Scheme made under the Endowed Schools Acts on the 9th May, 1891, and in the matter of "The Charitable Trusts Acts, 1853 to 1894."
BY direction of the Board of Charity Commissioners for England and Wales, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an Order is proposed to be made by them after the expiration of one calendar month, to be computed from the first publication of this notice, establishing a Scheme altering the above-mentioned Scheme.
It is proposed to provide for the suspension for five years (or such further period as may thereafter be sanctioned by the Charity Commissioners) of the operation of the provisions of clause 50 of the Scheme for charging an extra fee in the Scientific Department of the School for teaching Practical Agriculture.
Any objections to the proposed Order, or suggestions for its modification, may be transmitted to the Commissioners in writing, within 21 days from the first publication of this notice, addressed to "The Secretary, Charity Commission, Whitehall, London, S.W."
Dated the 5th day of November, 1894.
D. R. FEARON,
Secretary.

H. EDWARDS & SON beg to notify to their friends and customers that Mr. Henry Rouse is no longer in their employ, and has no authority to receive orders or money on their account.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10.

LORD SALISBURY'S POSITION.

As a criticism of Lord ROSEBERY'S programme, and as an authoritative statement of Conservative policy, Lord SALISBURY'S speech at Edinburgh deserves to be remembered. He was compelled to face an unexampled phenomenon in English history. A Prime Minister having been returned to power after a General Election, with a mandate for the consideration of one great Constitutional question, had come forward to agitate a totally different one, viz., a revolution in the Constitution of the country. The shelving of Home Rule in favour of a proposal to suppress one of the branches of the Legislature is, in fact, what Lord ROSEBERY imagines will give him a second lease of power. At the outset Lord SALISBURY points out that, as the Constitution now is, no Minister can refer any one particular question to the distinct judgment of the people for final settlement. Some day, perhaps, the referendum will be called, may become a feature of our Constitution, and work as well as it does in Switzerland. But the history of the last General Election proves that at present it is impossible. The question of Home Rule was undoubtedly before the country in 1892, but it is impossible to say that the votes of the electors were not largely determined by a vast number of other questions far more interesting to electors. So again, next year, Lord ROSEBERY may try and refer the House of Lords' existence as a particular point to the decision of the constituencies, but the Parliament which will be elected cannot be said to represent merely the views of the people upon one question. They will vote for the matters that peculiarly concern them. Lord ROSEBERY'S device is once more to obtain a blank cheque to his demands in the House of Commons, and to call his manner of broaching the question of the House of Lords a referendum is incorrect and dishonest.

THE PRIME MINISTER'S ADMISSION.

The Prime Minister has admitted that his demand amounts to a suppression of the Upper House. It is a question of ending, and not mending. What the Liberal party now ask for is power for the majority in the House of Commons to do as they like, without let or hindrance—without any review of their work by a Second Chamber. There is no provocation or ground on which to base this revolutionary demand. We may indeed say as to the contradiction which the history of the present century gives to the implied assumption that England has made no progress, and is hopelessly in the rear of the world in all political and legislative matters. There is no civilised land where the people are so free or so powerful, or where stable institutions have done more for the well-being of the State. Once passed, English laws are irrevocable; they are so only because they represent the fully matured and settled convictions of the vast bulk of the population. The existence of the Second Chamber has enabled this characteristic of our legislation to grow and develop. Consent is of the essence of the contract between the various sections of the people. The demand of Lord ROSEBERY is that this settled position of things should be rudely swept away, and that any chance majority of the House of Commons elected on any scratch policy should be able to decide upon the liberties and property of any great minority such as is represented to-day by the Opposition in Parliament. If it were possible to refer this question honestly, by itself, to the nation, we have no doubt what the answer would be. The record of the House may be put before the people without any fear of consequences. The Upper House, in rejecting the Home Rule Bill, in amending the Employers' Liability Bill, and in throwing out the Evicted Tenants Bill, acted according to the wishes of the majority of the representatives of Great Britain. Lord ROSEBERY claims that the decision of Great Britain should be overruled by Archbishop WALSH'S Irish battalions, by the votes of the South and West of Ireland. Without a Second Chamber these votes would practically dictate the policy of Great Britain, and from this monstrous result the action of the House of Lords has saved the country.

MORAL FORCE OF THE RESOLUTION.

In order to try and give a semblance of authority for the programme, Lord ROSEBERY intends to propose a resolution in the House of Commons denouncing the House of Lords and proposing its destruction. With the help of the Irish vote such a resolution may be carried, but it will have no moral force whatever. Very different agencies are required before the ancient institutions of England can be fundamentally changed. When the House of Lords is abolished, it will have to be done by the real opinion of the nation, and not by the mere passing of a resolution by a certain set of men claiming to represent a certain party in the State. The country will very seriously examine the case set up by Lord ROSEBERY before any endor

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

The Boot Factory. The rumour with regard to the starting of a new boot factory in Ipswich, refers to an enlargement by Mr. H. Underwood. It will be begun on a small scale.

Ipswich Nurses' Home. There is not often much eloquence in figures, but the simple statement in the report of the Ipswich Nurses' Home that 1,513 cases of sickness were tended during the year, indicates that an immense amount of good is done by that institution, which is further brought to light in that 1,026 of the cases were treated gratuitously. Miss Pye, the matron, deserves every encouragement in her noble work.

The Primrose League. We regret to announce that the Hon. John de Grey, Provincial Secretary of the Primrose League for the Eastern Counties (who visited the Ipswich Habitation a fortnight ago) is suffering from typhoid fever. The Grand Council would be obliged if all members of the Primrose League in the Eastern Counties would kindly address any communications for the present to the Vice-Chancellor, 64, Victoria Street, Westminster.

Another Cry from the Land. Lord Walsingham, who, as the Hon. Mr. T. De Grey, represented West Norfolk for a long period as a Conservative, has, says a contemporary, been offered by the Liberal Corporation of King's Lynn the position of High Steward, formerly filled by the late Earl of Derby. His lordship has declined the honour, stating that "under the existing conditions affecting landed property I hesitate to undertake any new responsibilities liable to involve expense."

A County Appointment Vacated. Aldermen, councillors, and all connected with the Suffolk County Council will regret that Mr. Alden Cobbold has resigned the office of Deputy Clerk of the Peace, found it necessary to relinquish his office owing to continued ill-health. Fortunately Mr. Westhorp will be succeeded by a gentleman quite capable of performing the duties in the person of Mr. Alfred Newsham Cobbold, who has been appointed deputy to Mr. Cherry. Mr. Cobbold has had the benefit of a long experience in the work of the county, and his selection for appointment will meet with general approval. The appointment will be made with the deputy clerkship to the East and West Suffolk County Councils.

All Saints, Ipswich. The parishioners of All Saints, Ipswich, have done their duty nobly. For seventeen years they have worked zealously and continuously to promote the welfare of their church, and after the splendid effort of Sunday last, when the handsome sum of over £145 was voluntarily contributed, they are within a measurable distance of seeing the institution which they have reared freed from the incubus of debt. If all "special offertories" were of as generous a character as the one in question, benefices would be far more easily filled, and churches more successful when recourse was had to that means of philanthropic money-making. All Saints has set a worthy example besides securing the good wishes of the rest of the churches in the borough.

Returning Officers' Fees. The grievance of the Suffolk Boards of Guardians' clerks in respect to the fees allowed to the County Councils for returning officers at the forthcoming Parish and District Councils' elections has been greatly intensified during the present week. With rare exceptions the union clerks are declining to act as returning officers, and some of the Local Boards of Guardians, recognising the failure of the County Council, have gone so far as to memorialise the county authority to reconsider their decision. Very few, if any, clergymen or local farmers have volunteered to discharge the duties, as was predicted by a member of the County Local Government Act Committee, and as matters stand at present there is a prospect of Suffolk becoming notorious for the incompetent conduct of its first Parish and District Council elections. There is yet time for common sense and justice to prevail.

Virtue's Reward. When one sets an idea it is well to emulate Captain Cuttle's example and make a note of it; and when one accidentally falls across an honest man it is just as well to strengthen his virtue by generous treatment. This, however, would not appear to be an acceptable notion to the lady who rode on an Ipswich tramcar a few days ago. The driver of the car discovered a lady's purse on the platform, which he found contained a considerable sum in gold and silver. The owner was not long in making the acquaintance of the finder, who, upon receiving a correct description of the lost treasure, promptly handed over the purse and its contents to the distressed lady. Her gratitude and joy at the recovery of her property found ample expression in words, and after carefully counting the money, rewarded the honest driver with—threepence! We did not hear whether such magnanimity (save the mark!) was declined with thanks.

Pollution of the Gipping. Few inhabitants of Stowmarket and even the Local Board itself will complain of the report which has been addressed to the Local Government Board on the polluted state of the river Gipping. That stream near Stowmarket has been described as an open sewer, dangerous to the health of the people. The charge is not denied, but those who read our report in another column will perceive that the difficulty of their work has been considerably increased by the refusal of neighbouring authorities to unite with them in a joint scheme for purification. Plans for sewering Stowmarket urban district will shortly be submitted to the Local Government Board, and until their sanction has been received to the scheme and the borrowing of money, the local authority are powerless. It is necessary, however, that this should be carried out as little delay as possible.

Miss Blackshaw at Hadleigh. Miss Jessie Blackshaw, the popular principal of the Eastern Counties' Dairy Institute (under whose auspices some interesting demonstrations in butter-making have this week been made at Hadleigh) has, in conjunction with Miss Mary Elizabeth Turner, issued a second edition of a very valuable manual on "Butter-making for our Pupils," which is dedicated to that rare friend of dairy farming, the Right Hon. the Marquis of Bristol. The work deals very lucidly with the whole subject of butter-making, commencing with the older methods, and contains valuable information respecting the essential elements to success. It is singular to note with what prejudice Suffolk farmers look upon the new system, but why this should be so is difficult to say, for the system has already been proved that better butter, both in quality and quantity, is capable of production by modern methods. At Hadleigh, too, Miss Blackshaw must with considerable success, for, at first, the pupils were taught practical lessons the pupils—consisting chiefly of farmers' wives and daughters—grew enthusiastic, and it is now believed that the lectures will prove of lasting benefit to that district. The Eastern Counties' Dairy Institute and the East Suffolk County Council are doing a most useful and necessary work in furthering dairy farming, and it will be very unsatisfactory indeed if they fail to gain the support of the people whom the lectures are intended to benefit.

Colchester Oyster Feast. Thousands of Suffolk people who read the account of the recent oyster feast at Colchester would doubtless be prepared to understand the causes of its celebration. Christopher Crayon, a well-known Essex writer, has been telling a contemporary all about it, and from this it appears it is necessary to set up the musty records of a century ago to discover the origin of this singular ceremony which the Colchester people celebrate with such zeal. Ever since the year 1793, the oyster feast has been held in Colchester on the Donye's Day, on the ground that oysters are in their perfect condition in the month of October. But it was not until 1845 that the feast assumed its present proportions. In the latter year Mr. Henry Walton, the then Mayor of Colchester, assembled over 200 guests at the festive board; and ever since the Mayor of the Chief Borough of Colchester has exerted himself to add dignity and lustre to the event. Royalty, law, letters, theology, the Legislature, and the army, have each and all at various times been represented at these gatherings, and the toast now Colchester is so likely to be engulphed in the unit now Colchester is so likely to be engulphed in the unit now Colchester is so likely to be engulphed in the unit

CAPT. PRETYMAN'S POLITICAL VIEWS.

HOW HE WOULD ASSIST THE LABOURER.

TRENCHANT CRITICISM OF THE HOUSE OF LORDS QUESTION.

RADICAL INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

As the largest and most convenient place of meeting in the district, the Mill at Stratford St. Mary was opened on Friday evening, and there was a big muster of the electors of the neighbourhood to hear an address by Capt. Pretyman, who was accompanied by Lord Raglan. Major R. B. Colvin, the popular master of the Essex and Suffolk Foxhounds, who have their kennels in the neighbourhood, presided, and expressed satisfaction at the representative attendance of people. He believed that supporters of both parties were present, and he asked the Liberals to give the speakers a fair hearing, and to put any question they desired at the close. The request was taken in the right spirit, the audience being attentive and showing themselves interested. Major Colvin briefly touched on the importance of having a strong foreign policy, a strong army, and a strong navy, remarking that England was the richest country in the world, and would be the richest prize for other nations if it could be conquered.

Capt. PRETYMAN, who was heartily received, at once referred to the declaration of war which Lord Rosebery had made against the House of Lords. The leader of the Radical party had said that this was to be at the next election. People were told that the House of Lords was almost entirely an hereditary chamber. The words used by a Radical were that the reason a man got to be in the House of Lords was that he was the son of his father, and, therefore, because every man was the son of some father, he was no better than other people. Now, as a matter of fact, a very large number of the members of the House of Lords had been placed there for distinguished service of their own. (Cheers.) The House now consisted of 572 members. Of these 336—considerably more than half—had been created since 1830; since a large number of the audience whom he was addressing were born. They had been created because they were men of commanding ability, or had rendered great service to their country in some particular path of life. Although the Radicals were always abusing the Lords, the Radicals were wonderfully fond of making them. (Laughter.) Out of the 336 peers created since 1830 the Conservatives had created 119 and the Liberals 217. That was a hundred more than the Conservatives had ever created. (Laughter.) Thus the Liberals abused the very people whom they themselves had made what they were. (Cheers.) Since 1830 it was the Liberal Government there were no fewer than 21 Peers, and in the present Liberal Government there were no more than 12. The Radicals seemed to have to go to the Lords to find the most useful members of their Government. (Hear, hear!) He supposed the same remark was true of whatever their politics, that a man who was sent by a constituency to the House of Commons was fit to be a Radical, but other than fit to be a Liberal. He had sent House of Lords had first sat in the House of Commons. (Cheers.) Another very important element in the House of Lords consisted of the men who had filled various important positions under the Crown in the Colonies, and who had derived great experience. There were twenty-one Peers who had at some time or other been colonial governors. He could not attach too much importance to the Colonies, as the most important that our Colonies should remain part of this great Empire, and it was not enough for the old country to keep them—they must keep them as well. (Hear, hear.) If the Colonies were to say, "We have had enough of you, Englishmen can't protect us, we will have to look to the United States and Germany to help to compel them to remain part of the Empire? No: that had happened in the case of America when America was a great deal less powerful than Canada or Australia, and much less able to defend itself, would be repeated.

THE COLONIES WOULD BE LOST.

If Australia, Canada, and the other great colonies thought that the connection with Great Britain was no longer be of any value to them they would cut that connection. The fact that they had in the House of Lords 21 Peers who had been colonial governors, and who were most fully competent to speak for the colonists, with experience derived from the Colonies, for them a most valuable and useful link in this great Empire. (Cheers.) It might be said that some members of the House of Commons might have been to the Colonies, but nowadays if a man wanted to go to Parliament it was not very safe for him to go abroad for a long time. Some other man would be making the most of his absence from the constituency. (Laughter.) They were, moreover, able to have in the House of Lords men distinguished for service as soldiers, naval commanders, or in some other capacity, and who were willing to give their experience, but not to go through a political battle. Passing on to speak of the attitude of the House of Lords, Capt. Pretyman said that if a measure were passed hastily through the House of Commons by a small majority, and that measure was not believed by the Lords to be sound or right or really popular in the country, the Lords could say that the measure back and give the people an opportunity of expressing an opinion upon it. (Cheers.) People who were now called upon to follow the Radical party in a crusade against the House of Lords and other historic institutions of this country might naturally enquire what was this party they were asked to follow? He would allow that the Liberal party had a history of which they might be proud, but he did not think it would be allowed that the present party had a right to claim all the traditions of the great Liberal party of the past. What was their composition? They included a remnant of the old Liberal party, but the mass of the present Radical party consisted of such, for instance, as the teetotallers, who would put the whole policy of the country in the balance against the question whether a man should be allowed to have a nose at all. There was another party which was very eminent about women's rights—he was the Women's Union party, and the Little England party—the party who said that England by herself was plenty big enough to look after herself, and the leaders of the Colonies, the party who ran away from the Boers and deserted Khartoum. (Laughter.) Were these people who could be followed in destroying a great constitutional history with any chance of success? They might succeed in destroying it, but they would not succeed in build up, and by success he meant success in making Englishmen happier, better off and more friendly than they were before. Referring to the action of the Trades Union Section, Capt. Pretyman remarked that every man had a perfect right to ally himself with any other man for any purpose that he chose to do or do anything which England allowed. But when it came to coercion of others, using force and cruelty, attempting to overawe men who did not belong to a trade union and forcing these men to give up work because they themselves had not the power to fight their battle with the Union party, and the Little England party—the party who said that England by herself was plenty big enough to look after herself—

AGRICULTURE IN SUFFOLK.

[By One Special Correspondent.]

What a sublime autumn! The atmosphere has perhaps been a little too "muggy," and on the whole not so healthy and nice as at some seasons when a little suspicion of coming winter frosts has been apparent. On Tuesday morning, however, the sharp, clear touch discernible in the sky before they modestly retired to give place to the greater light. The daybreak was delightful. If my friends the good townspeople, so many of whom apparently love to lie in bed half the day, were not up soon enough to see the glory of the daybreak and to sniff the clear, bracing air, why, the loss will be theirs. I'll tell you what my practice is, and as an old agricultural friend I may be allowed to say what he was describing how he managed his considerable farming business and left himself tolerably free to do certain amount of work for the ratepayers free of cost, "and that is to rise soon after daybreak before six, start the men off, and then see that my colts and are all right, and sit down to breakfast at eight. Then I can generally do a breakfast, I assure you." I looked into his face, which was of a colour that if he were to blush crimson as a rose it would not show it, and I timidly suggested that he did not undertake a journey of that kind every morning without a "little drop of something" in it. "Well," he said, "my wife generally leaves me a 'little drop of tea,' and that depends upon how I feel whether I put a little drop of brandy into it or not." Now I have my own opinion as to what must be a world of meaning in that. "Well, when I have done my round and my breakfast my letter," he added, "then I am ready for the rest of the day." But I want to go to the Board, to market, or anywhere else." This is the way to enjoy such a morning as that of Tuesday. My friend is getting on well towards the allotted span, and yet he can "knock 'em over" with his gun just as well as ever he could. He is one of those home folks which he fairly earns by his industry in the morning is devoted to sport at home and with his neighbours. Bed at ten, breakfast at eight, and then walk and breakfast at eight, must be a tolerably good recipe for keeping at bay the life to which flesh is heir to. Pardon the digression, but I thoroughly enjoyed it. The sun is shining through my window and I feel as though after all. Now to business. The Council of the Suffolk Chamber of Agriculture is a kind of experiment which has about it the flavour of enterprise, which has always been so marked a feature of this Society, as a consequence of which it has made for itself a name and a place unique almost in the history of kindred institutions, time considered. Suffolk blackfaced sheep are amongst the most famous of the distinctive breeds of the country which it is only fair to assume they would not have enjoyed to the full the efforts made in season and out of season to publish abroad and make known their high qualities. Of course the spirited manner in which the Society has set to work to banish all and even more than is claimed for them in the districts at home and abroad to which they are sent that the Council has done well to follow the example in launching out in different directions, and they have done this with a success which is most gratifying and encouraging.

LIFE WAS WORTH LIVING

THE LATEST MOVEMENT

is an exhibition under the auspices of the Society of ewe lambs which has been selected by the judges as they have gone the rounds of the flocks entered for competition for the Chamber of Agriculture Cups. This competition which is to be held at the Drill Hall, Ipswich, next Tuesday, is for the Fretyman Challenge Cup, and will be open only to members of the Society. The exhibition will have a special interest because examples will be sent of the best young animals which some of the most noted breeders in all parts of the country have been able to produce, and doubtless many a breeder of black-faced sheep, as well as many other agriculturists, will be glad to avail themselves of the coup in at the Drill Hall to see what the competitive ewe lambs are like. They will certainly be home-like looking as they are many important agricultural topics before the country at the present time—each having an interest and value peculiarity its own. One is the establishment of another the formation of joint stocks banks, and there are several others including questions relating to the land and the unemployed. It is satisfactory to witness all this activity in such matters and to find the Council connected with the cultivation of the land, but the sovereign balm for the sad condition in which agriculture finds herself to-day is to be found in the cup of tea. Still we cannot affect to ignore the fact that the agricultural depression is very severe, and that too by gentlemen who are eminent in agricultural circles. At the meeting of the Central Chamber of Agriculture in London a most definite resolution was passed on the subject of Credit Banks, after a discussion during which several keen, far-seeing speakers urged the necessity of such protection being afforded to needy agriculturists, who it was alleged were often the dupes of designing persons having no interest in the land, but who had capital out of the dire necessities of men. Indeed, the more urgent the necessity for an immediate loan the more readily the capitalist was found to be willing. The proposed banks is to counteract this evil, for such it undoubtedly is, by the setting up of a system of village credit banks on the plan which the public have been assured has worked very successfully in some of the Continental countries.

AGRICULTURAL BANKS ASSOCIATION

has been formed, and Mr. E. M. Lubbock, the organising secretary, has issued a circular in which he has delivered the other day at Cirencester, said some things which must come home forcibly to men having an unsatisfactory view of the position of the agricultural world. "A few years ago," he said, "the subject of credit was not thought of, and rightly so it was now. Credit was good and advances easily obtained; farmers were prosperous and prices good; seasons were not so disastrous as they had been lately, and credit could be got through ordinary banks. Now things were different, and ordinary banks had reduced their facilities for advances, and money was not capable out of the dire necessities of men. Indeed, the more urgent the necessity for an immediate loan the more readily the capitalist was found to be willing. The object of the

HADLEIGH FARMERS' CLUB.

ANNUAL SHOW OF ROOTS AND POULTRY.

The annual exhibition of roots, butter, and cottagers' productions under the auspices of the Hadleigh Farmers' Club used to be one of the principal events of the year in the neighborhood of Hadleigh, but the continued depression in agriculture has had a most deleterious effect upon this show, which was held for the first time on the Hadleigh Corn Exchange yesterday-fifty-fifth time in the Hadleigh Corn Exchange yesterday. Sir Joshua T. Rowley, Bart., is the president for the year, and the exhibition was divided into the classes for members of the club, cottagers, and allotment cultivators—the latter a very good feature, the classes of which contained some excellent samples of potatoes, cauliflowers, red cabbages, and vegetable marrows. There was a very good show of roots, though the judges were put to some trouble by exhibitors entering the exhibits in the wrong classes, and several lots of otherwise good roots were disqualified on that account. The Yellow Globe mangolds and the green-top turnips were especially noticeable, while some particularly nice green cabbages were also shown. The entries for butter were far from being numerous, but, with two exceptions, the samples displayed were very creditable indeed. There was only one exhibit of salt butter, and this was not as good as could have been desired, farmers in the Hadleigh district having evidently failed to grasp of serving butter for use—a failing which has been remarked upon at this show for some years. There was no exhibit of fancy butter for the prizes offered by the Club, but any deficiency in this respect was fully atoned for by a choice and elegant basket of butter rose made by Mrs. Blackshaw, which carried off a dainty class at the White Lion Hotel in connection with the West Suffolk County Council. This was not, however, sent for competition; neither was the interesting display of fancy butter exhibits made by the pupils at the Hadleigh dairy class on the previous day. In this section, too, was to be seen one of the Suffolk cheddar cheese—not for competition—made at the class conducted by the Eastern Counties Dairy Institute at Horringer last year. It is interesting to note that these cheese have realised as much as 10d. per lb., while the butter made at Hadleigh this week has sold at 1s. 6d. per lb.—prices which are certainly tempting to dairy farmers in these times. Dressed poultry was a very small show indeed; while the exhibits of cottagers were so few as to afford little room for competition. The prizes for half dozens of roots were increased last year and as we have already said, this department of the show was an admirable one. The introduction of cut chrysanthemums is a new feature, and among yesterday's exhibits were some fine specimens from the grounds of the Very Rev. E. Spooner, rector of Hadleigh. The prizes for allotment cultivators were offered by the West Suffolk County Council. The withdrawal of the prizes for live poultry three years ago appears to have detracted somewhat from the show, but as the finances in an anything but flourishing state, and agriculture a bankrupt industry, the committee were justified in their action, as the fowls were and non-remunerative to people who benefitted most by the classes for the feathered tribe. Mr. Arthur J. Grimwade, of Sudbury, again discharged the secretarial duties with ability, and the judges' awards gave general satisfaction, were:—Roots. Messrs. Gould, Coggleshall; and J. A. Smith, Ipswich. Fruit, Messrs. Cutting, Hadleigh; Bowden, Cundy, Sudbury, and P. Beer, Edwardstone. Poultry, eggs, butter, and honey, Mr. J. A. Smith, Ipswich; cottagers' allotments, Messrs. Cutting, P. Beer, T. Finch (gardener, Gifford's Hall), and C. Radman, Hadleigh; needlework, Mrs. Muriel and Mrs. E. C. Radman; honey, Mr. J. Hall, Hadleigh. In the evening the members partook of their annual tea at the White Lion Hotel, after which Sir Joshua Rowley, Bart., took the chair, and Mr. W. Cuthbert Quilter, M.P., delivered an interesting speech.

EMIGRATION FIGURES.

Returns issued by the Board of Trade show that during the 10 months ended 31st October, 201,272 persons emigrated from the United Kingdom to places out of Europe, as compared with 205,485 during the corresponding period of last year. Of the total 87,487 were English, 12,502 Scotch, and 39,984 Irish, the remainder being foreigners or persons whose nationality was not stated. Of emigrants there were 143,259 sailed for the United States, 22,436 for British North America, 8,921 for Australasia, and 1,656 for South Africa, the latter showing a large increase as compared with the corresponding 10 months of 1893. During last month 19,965 persons emigrated, as against 19,002 in October last year. The English numbered 11,809, the Scotch 1,345, and the Irish 4,836, the remainder being foreigners.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A MINISTER.

The Rev. Valentine Ward, Congregational pastor, dropped down dead in Smedley Street, Matlock Bath. He was one of the oldest Congregationalists in the country.

SINGULAR CHARGE OF MURDER.

UNPLEASANT SEQUEL TO A FUNERAL.

Michael Nolan, Dublin carman, has been committed for trial charged with the wilful murder of Michael Collins. The evidence showed that the accused, who had charge of a hearse at a funeral, drove so furiously that the people could not keep up with it. Collins remonstrated, when the accused knocked him down, and putting Collins's head in his mouth bit it, nearly severing one of his fingers. The deceased contracted blood poisoning and died in the workhouse hospital.

LOWESTOFT SCHOOL BOARD FINANCES.

NEW SCHOOL FOR KIRKLEY.

The Lowestoft School Board held its monthly meeting on Monday evening under the presidency of the Rev. C. D. Laurence. A report from the Finance Committee recommended that application be made to the Education Department for sanction to a loan of £6,350 for building and furnishing Morton Road School, and to the repayment thereof being spread over a term of 50 years. The report was adopted at the session of Mr. Adams, seconded by Mr. W. Mobbs.—The General Purposes Committee accepted the tender of Mr. A. Bedwell, of Lowestoft, for £5,200, for the erection of Morton Road, Kirkley, for £5,200, subject to the approval of the Education Department. The tenders for the erection of the Morton Road School were read out as follows:—Mr. O. J. Kemp, Kirkley, £5,300; Mr. H. Lacey, Norwich, £5,457; Messrs. Youngs and Son, Gorleston, £5,397; Mr. G. E. Harrison, Norwich, £5,220; Messrs. Girling and Cox, Ipswich, £5,597; Mr. A. Bedwell, Lowestoft, £5,200; Mr. T. Grimble, had during the past week been suffering from influenza, Lowestoft, £6,610; Mr. W. Cork, Great Yarmouth, £5,499; Messrs. J. and B. Swatman, Lowestoft, £5,776; Mr. G. W. Rook, Great Yarmouth, £6,300; Mr. J. S. Smith, Norwich, £5,555. The report was adopted.

SUFFOLK INCENDIARY SCARE.

MORE STACK FIRING NEAR BURY.

TWO STACKS DESTROYED NEAR HAVERHILL.

Further destruction by fire, undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, was caused near Bury St. Edmund's late on Saturday night, when several stacks were completely destroyed. The steward of Mrs. Smith's Pipers Farm, Hawstead—a man named Tatum—was about to retire to rest when he saw that a fire of unusual light in the stackyard. With commendable promptitude she called her husband's attention to the glare. He went to ascertain the cause, and became much alarmed at discovering that two of several stacks were blazing. A message was despatched on horseback to Bury St. Edmund's for the Volunteer Fire Brigade; but some time necessarily elapsed before Captain Tracy and other officers of the brigade were able to arrive. Many of the flames developed with fearful rapidity, and by the efforts of the brigade a sanfoin stack, a bean stack and a stack of wheat straw were saved, although damaged, but two stacks of oats, one of beans, a clover stack, and a stack of wheat straw were totally destroyed. Farm buildings adjoined fortunately escaped. The damage is roughly estimated at several hundred pounds.—On Monday evening, between six and seven o'clock, a fire broke out at the Copy Farm, Helions Bumpstead, in the occupation of Mrs. Tibbrook. Two large stacks of barley and oats were destroyed. The Haverhill Fire Brigade were quickly on the spot, and, by their exertions, saved ten other stacks. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

REMARKABLE CALENDAR AT ESSEX ASSIZES.

THE SOUTHEND MURDER.

Nearly 300 applications were received for seats at the Essex Autumn Assizes, the commission for which was opened at the Shirehall, Chelmsford, on Thursday. Special accommodation is prepared for the press in the numerous applications having been made by newspapers for seats for their representatives. The gallery usually reserved for reporters is not nearly capable of affording accommodation to more than a dozen persons, and other parts of the Court are requisitioned for Press purposes. The Judge, Mr. Justice Mathew (assigned) heavy in point of numbers, is a most remarkable one. The greatest interest, of course, attaches to the trial of Frederick Adolphus Baker, the London lock clerk, who is indicted for the

WILFUL MURDER OF MISS FLORENCE DENNIS,

at Prittlewell, near Southend, on June 24. It is understood that the hearing will be taken on Monday next. The trial will, it is expected, occupy three days. The Solicitor-General, Mr. C. F. Gill, and Mr. G. Stephenson will appear for the prosecution; and it will be defended by Mr. Cock, Q.C., and Mr. J. D. Warburton, who conducted the defence before the magistrates. Apart from this most sensational case there is another of a different character, which is being looked forward to with interest. In the calendar is the name of Alfred Rowland Harrington Hill, who stands indicted for feloniously wounding Miss Ada Everett, at Dagenham, and attempting to commit suicide. The circumstance attending the case are, it will be recollected, of

A MOST ROMANTIC NATURE.

At the magisterial proceedings at Stratford Miss Spooner stated that she had been acquainted with Hill, who was her lover, for eighteen months, and that they had mutually agreed to commit suicide together. She met him by appointment on Saturday, August 25th, at Southend and they afterwards travelled to Dagenham together. There they purchased a bottle of oil of each other's company, and towards night Hill gave her some laudanum, which he took from a bottle and drank himself. They agreed that if the laudanum did not take effect Hill should use a knife. The effects of the drug not being strong enough, Hill then, after Miss Spooner's permission, inflicted a wound in her neck with a small table-knife. They continued to wander about, and Miss Spooner got in a small brook, but Hill dragged was finally assisted out by Hill. During the whole of Saturday night, and for the greater part of Sunday, in a most miserable plight, and it was only on Sunday night that they sought refuge at a farmhouse in the vicinity. Hill was subsequently charged and committed for trial. The calendar also contains the name of Edmund Griffiths, who is charged with bigamy under somewhat remarkable circumstances at Barking. There are several cases of burglary, the name of the accused prisoners being 14, 15, 16, and 17 respectively. There is one charge of criminal assault, and two of attempted criminal assault. The other charges in the calendar, which at present contains 18 names, are stealing, embezzlement, forgery of a telegram and theft of a postal letter, and attempted suicide.

SUFFOLK ROADS AND BRIDGES.

IMPORTANT APPLICATION BY THE HIGH SHERIFF.

COST OF MAIN ROADS.

Mr. H. E. Buxton presided over a meeting of the East Suffolk Roads and Bridges Committee held at the Shirehall, Ipswich, on Tuesday. A sum of £228 14s. for supplying and fixing 220 yards of stone kerbing for footpaths in Wickham Market Street, which had been previously laid down, at 20½d. per linear metre, was again discussed.—The County Surveyor (Mr. Henry Miller) explained that the Council referred the matter back to the Committee, and had they objected to the grant on principle.—Mr. W. N. Whitmore strongly urged the necessity for the improvement.—Mr. H. F. Harwood, as the mover of the resolution in the Council referring the question back to the Committee, said he did not object to what was being so because he could not make up his mind that it was right to put a kerb path in so narrow a part of the main road, but now he believed they were not be justified in spending the money. He was under the impression that his resolution in the Council suggested that Wickham Market should contribute half the expense, and he now moved a resolution to that effect.—Mr. Mobbs seconded the motion, which was carried, Mr. Whitmore failing to second to his proposition that the

be paid by the Council.—The Stowmarket Local Board applied to the Committee to take over the Pickerel Bridge, connecting Stowmarket and Stowupland.—Mr. H. F. Harwood proposed that the application be declined to.—Mr. Dack remarked that probably after taking it over they would be asked to build a new bridge.—Mr. J. A. Smith moved, and Mr. Mobbs seconded, that the application be declined, and this was carried.—Mr. W. N. Waller submitted an application for the grant of £20 to a bridge at Little Bealings. The nature of his application was to obtain information as to the enclosure of the ancient watering-place at the bridge. He said that when the roads were under the control of Quarter Sessions, the then county surveyor (Mr. Eyles), the road surveyor, and the overseer, thought proper to enclose the watering-place at the bridge, which had been used as such beyond the memory of man. He consequently people had

NOT THE MEANS FOR WATERING THEIR STOCK.

The enclosure was not noticed at the time, and no objection was made to Quarter Sessions; but he now asked whether the County Council, as the only body of the Quarter Sessions, could not now remove the fence.—The Chairman said that Mr. Waller's application really came within the province of the agenda.—Mr. H. F. Harwood considered it a question for the District Councils. Ultimately the Committee decided that as the matter stood they had no jurisdiction.—Mr. J. A. Smith intimated that he should on a future occasion move that the bridge be taken over.—The County Surveyor said that the amount expended on main roads up to the 30th September was £3,079 19s. 6d., leaving a balance of the requisition money granted of £4,771, of which £1,000 would be expended. He thought that the next quarter, being a very heavy one, £2,000 would be required, which would be the case as in the corresponding period of last year. The amount spent up to the 30th September was

£200 LESS THAN LAST YEAR.

—A formal resolution was passed that the Finance Committee be requisitioned to provide the £2,000.—Mr. Henry Miller was re-appointed County Surveyor.—A notice that all questions relating to contributions to roads, other than main roads, be referred to the District Councils, was considered, instead of to the Committee consisting of the County Councillors and Aldermen residing within the Union, was carried unanimously.

An old custom was revived at the recent marriage of Sir Reginald Hanson's daughter to Mr. Ward. Every bridesmaid had a groomsman.

SACRIFICED TO A FINNISH IDOL.

A REMARKABLE STORY FROM RUSSIA.

A terrible example of the remains of heathenism in Russia (says the Times St. Petersburg correspondent) is mentioned in the Moscow Gazette and other journals. A trial, it is stated, will shortly take place of a number of peasants living in a district of Kazan for killing one of their number as a sacrifice to the idols of the Votiaks, a Finnish race, of whom considerable numbers continue to live in more or less uncivilised conditions along the Volga, between the Viatka and Kama rivers.

PASSIONATE SERVANT'S SUICIDE.

Alice Davidson, ago 16, committed suicide by cutting her throat. The evidence at the inquest showed that she had been employed as under-housemaid at No. 10, Manor Road, Twickenham, for about a month. After a slight quarrel with a fellow-servant she exclaimed, "I think I'll cut my throat," at the same time taking a table-knife from under her apron and drawing it across her neck. The jury returned a verdict of "Suicide during mental derangement," the Coroner remarking that the girl appeared to have taken her life during a fit of uncontrollable passion.

A VICTIM OF INFLUENZA.

SUICIDE NEAR EYE.

A most distressing case of suicide occurred at Athelington, near Eye, on Wednesday, when the wife of Tampion Cannell drowned herself in a pond by the side of the road, and within 50 yards of her house. The deceased, who leaves a husband and six children, had during the past week been suffering from influenza, and on Wednesday morning she was the first to come downstairs; her husband followed some time afterwards, and not finding her, went to the nearest neighbour, and on his return saw a woman's skirt floating on a pond by the side of the road. The body was quickly seen be promptly rescued the body, which proved to be that of his wife. Life was quite extinct, although every means was used to restore animation.

THE BLYTHING NAVIGATION.

COUNTY COUNCIL ASKED TO TAKE OVER THE COMMISSIONERS.

On Tuesday at a meeting of the East Suffolk General Purposes Committee held at Ipswich, the chairman (Mr. T. Loman) reported receipt of a lengthy communication from the Blything Navigation Commissioners in which was given a history of the Blyth Navigation, and the County Council were asked to take over the undertaking, the commissioners having no funds.—Mr. Of the Local Government Act. Since the receipt of that communication, however, Mr. Tod had written, that communication, however, Mr. Tod had written, stating that he thought the matter might be allowed to stand over for a time, as the Commissioners were about to meet, and the River Blyth Trade under the Railway and Canal Traffic Act. The Chairman added that the Board of Trade could under certain conditions authorise the abandonment of the navigation, which included in the Blyth Navigation.—Mr. E. L. Everett asked whether by delay they would be risking any valuable privileges.—The Chairman: On the contrary we shall have to be very careful what we are about. It is an old story that the Blyth Navigation is almost derelict, financially, and the river is a fearful one. The question involved is more of a landowners' question. The Blyth Commissioners would like to get the whole affair off their hands, so that the Board of Trade will not hand it over to us without giving us due notice.—The consideration of the matter was postponed.

GROSS CRUELTY TO A HORSE.

AN ALDEBURGH VETERINARY DESERVEDLY PUNISHED.

The adjourned charge against Edward Thomas Coe, an Aldeburgh veterinary surgeon, for cruelty to a horse at Wickham Market, was heard before the Woodbridge Justices on Wednesday.—Mr. J. T. Colam appeared for the R.S.P.C.A., and Mr. W. H. Marshall, of Ipswich, for the defendant.—Mr. Colam said the defendant drove the animal, which was attached to a trap, into Wickham Market on Fair Monday, and was a painfully lame and exhausted condition.—As Coe was driving into the town he was met by Inspector Leggett, veterinary surgeon, recommended that he had sold a year ago for breeding purposes. Mr. Leggett parted with the horse as it was not fit to travel, and would never be fit to work unless worked on light land. In spite of continued protests by Mr. Leggett, the defendant persisted in driving the horse, which went lamentably.—On reaching the Volunteer Inn yard, the animal and eventually died.—Inspector Leggett, who, by the horse fell to the ground twice before the cutler could get the harness off. Later on, Coe harnessed the horse, which was utterly unable to walk, with a view to the intention of driving back to Aldeburgh; Police-constable Wilson, however, recommended Coe to put him up, and the animal was unharnessed.—Evidence was given in support of the case by Mr. Leggett; Mr. H. Day, veterinary surgeon, Wickham Market; Arthur Smith, cutler; Police-constable Wilson, and Mr. J. Worsley, veterinary surgeon, Ipswich.—Mr. Marshall, on behalf of the defendant, said the latter received the animal from Edward Warmoll, miller, of Knoddishall, to cure of chronic rheumatism. He had purchased it for £5, and considered it was justified in driving it to Wickham Market.—Evidence was offered by Sergt. Major Pletzer, Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Percy Fennell, the Chequers, Wickham Market; David Ford, signalman, Campsey Ashe; and Edward Warmoll, miller, Knoddishall.—The Bench considered the case as one of gross cruelty, and sentenced Coe to two months' hard labour.

DROPPED DOWN OWING TO EXHAUSTION

EVENING CONCERT AT IPSWICH.

There was only one vacant space in the Ipswich Public Hall on Tuesday evening when the annual concert, promoted by F. Say was given. Everybody was in the space, where no one could be expected to sit, but where a public organ ought to be, and in face of such a splendid attendance as that with which Mr Pawsey's enterprise was rewarded it did seem that the committee responsible for the district should be strong enough to realise that idea. All the reserved seats were taken up, and the back part so crowded that it was evident a much larger hall could have been filled. The concert opened with an artistic interpretation by Madame Hast and Mr. Leo Stern of a pianoforte and cello duet from the works of the Norwegian master, Greig—an exhilaratio movement from a sonata. Miss Mabel Berrey, a young lady with a very promising voice, sang "Sing Sir Cha. Halle, then made her first appearance in Ipswich. The song was one by Denza, entitled "A May Morning," and the beauty of the voice was quickly recognised. It is of exceptional quality, has been carefully cultivated, and withal there was a naturalness of grace and feeling. The high notes were particularly good. Miss Berrey's next contribution was a bolero, "Le rebuce des pronis" (Desenne), which was an enthusiastic encore. The rendering of the florid passage in the solo was extremely clear, and the trill delightful. For the re-demand she sang "Loch Lomond" with taste, and in the second part gave "Butterflies" (Corbett) very prettily. Madame Alice Gregson, born in Calcutta, has a rich and full contralto voice, which was heard to advantage (although she had a slight cold) in the song "Altdeutscher Liebereim," by Carl Bohm. She interpreted it with real sympathy, and on an encore sang, "When love is kind." For the Easter love song Ostersied she was again recalled, the vocalisation being delightful, and the discreet use of the portamento style specially admired. Madame Gregson's second song was "Ave Maria." Her last appearance was to present the Irish love song, "Put your head, my bonnie," which was melodious. Miss Berrey and Mr. Say sang the duet from the opera, "The song of birds." The contra'to was, perhaps, a little too strong for the soprano, but the song was a very charming one, and was rendered admirably. Solos on the flute by Mr. Leo Stern, who last year performed no fewer than eight times before Royalty, were looked forward to with interest, and were not disappointing. In the first pianoforte and 'cello duet, the faultlessness of intonation, of course, struck everyone. In the solo, "La Sylphide," by the French composer, Berbiguier, the lighter notes were particularly sweet, and the tarantella, by which the composer is principally known, showed the player's versatility. On the re-demand he gave one of Chopin's nocturnes, in which the double stopping was very clearly done. A romance, by Gillman, was his final given, and a morceau, "Butterflies" (Popper), with spirit. The Meister Glee Singers have so often won encores in Ipswich that little can be said in their praise.

THE PRIMA DONNA OF THE PARTY, A SPANISH

THE CLEVEREST THING

in the evening was the musical jest "An Italian Salad," written in the form of a finale to an opera. The characteristic way in which the various forms of expression in music were brought out, tickled the humour of the audience. They responded with the plantation melody, "Massa's in the cold, cold ground," with imitation banjo accompaniment. The special harmonisation of "Robin Adair" showed as usual the admirable balance of the voices, and the encore, "Dycbi Lamon," was appreciated. "The Ring and the Rose" was plaintive, the pianissimo singing being very effective. On a re-demand they fetched the company with a humorous part song, "Caught," wherein the mock solemnity of the bass in the line "We've caught that on one knee [!]," was very amusing. The humorous quartet, "The Fiddler," was also well received. With regard to the separate contributions, the first was a pianoforte solo by Miss Berrey, a boldness and tenderness of the theme alike being ably brought out. The encore was "Dycbi Lamon," which she displayed his vocal power. Madame Hast undertook the arduous duties of accompanist, and performed them sympathetically.

Giddiness, Sensations of Faints, I will demonstrate to the whole world how that most distressing complaint, Epilepsy, or which has been hitherto considered incurable, can be permanently cured (without the chance of failure).—Write to Dr. Napper, 17, Burwood House, Burwood Place, Hyde Park, London, he will send you "Gratis," full instructions forfeiture.

DEATH OF THE REV. G. IRVING-DAVIES.

Regret will be felt through a wide district at the death of the Rev. George Irving-Davies, which occurred after a short illness at Kelsale Rectory on Friday evening. The deceased gentleman was presented to the living in 1868, and became Rural Dean of South Dunwich in 1881. During his incumbency at Kelsale the church has been made one of the most beautiful in the county, and a large amount of work has been done in the parish. Mr. Davies having the aid of two assistant clergymen, one of whom has now been in his employ for nearly seven years.
